About The Old Southendian Organ Society

The Old Southendian Organ Society (OSOS) was set up to protect and enhance the future of the War Memorial Organ at Southend High School for Boys (SHSB). We aim to assist, alongside the Old Southendian Association, in supporting organ pupils by further enhancing the opportunities available to them through the friendly community of past organists and other old members of the School. Recent activities have included a number of concerts like this evening and trips organised for the School's Organ Club. In 2017/18, the Society and its supporters enabled a major project to professionally rebuild the organ. We were proud to present the results of over a year of work, carried out by The Village Workshop pipe organ builders, in concerts last year, including in a performance by Adrian Lucas (former Worcester Cathedral organist and SHSB pupil 1972-79). We are hugely grateful to all of our supporters who make this all possible.

The War Memorial Organ

The organ was gifted to the school in 1923 by the Old Southendians in memory of staff and ex-pupils lost in the Great War. Installed in the Victoria Circus building, it was transferred to the Prittlewell Chase site in 1938 but blown to pieces two years later by a World War Two bomb, having to wait until 1953 before restoration by its builders, Hill Norman & Beard.

From 1998, when that firm closed for business, until 2017, the care of the instrument, and responsibility for tuning and servicing it fell to students and staff of the school, led by Gerald Usher (then music staff). In 2002 pupils Jonathan Roberts and Greg Tucker persuaded the school to acquire two redundant church organs. From then until 2016, successive teams of senior pupils and Gerald added five ranks of pipes, providing many extra tone colours and a substantial increase in power, not least with the addition of the Great Trumpet.

Organ Appeal and major work to the organ in 2017/18

We were delighted to receive a fantastic and generous response to the appeal to fund the comprehensive project to rebuild the organ professionally, with in excess of £50K donated through our friends, members, and pipe sponsors.

The work has provided a much expanded instrument, with new string sounds on the Swell, robust bass sounds on the Pedal with a Trombone stop and Acoustic Bass formed, extra versatility with a Geigen Principal and Piccolo on the Swell, plus other enhancements and voicing. The restored console, improved electronic action and control systems, extra playing aids, and overhauled blower provide an instrument fit to play into its second century. Do join us at a future event to hear the result in action!
